

Poe Essex

April 5, 2019

There is a saying that sometimes the smallest things take up the most room in your heart. For Poe Essex, that saying was true. Even at 20lbs, he was a small bundle of fun and energy that lit up the lives of his parents, Jeremy and Tara Essex.

Poe came into the lives of Jeremy and Tara on May 7, 2012 in the small town of Muncie Indiana. From the day he came home, he filled their home with endless love that only a dog can give. A few of his favorite things in the world was licking his daddy's ears, napping and going on car rides to see the sights. He loved his tennis balls and ropes and finishing up a rough of day of playing by lying in bed with fur parents. He earned the nicknames Poe Poe and Poe Mcjagger from his parents for his silly ways.

When Poe wanted attention, whether it was for his favorite treats; Peanut Butter Bones or Chicken; or just a belly rub, he made sure to get it!

Although he loved most foods, he had a certain dislike for pretzels. His parent's favorite memory of him was the trick he taught himself, which was to spin around and bark when he wanted something. Whether it was to go potty or a belly rub, he always got his way! He was truly the best dog ever.

Poe led a happy, treasured life until he passed, on April 5, 2019, surrounded by those who loved him. He is survived by his fur parents, Jeremy and Tara Essex, his fur siblings, Keegan and Bella, and his grandparents, Tim and Iris. He is also survived by his grandma, Helen.

Poe will be deeply missed by all his friends and family. RIP Poe Poe.
