Amos Fetz

January 15, 2007-February 28, 2026

His nickname was “The Derpy Couch Panda”. He was a tuxedo cat and had an underbite, so his tongue was almost always peeking or hanging out. He rarely left the couch, so he was dubbed “The Derpy Couch Panda”.

His family includes pet parents Jen and Dan Fetz, and his living pet siblings are Charlie, Bug, and Colt. He is preceded in death by his other pet siblings Daisy, Hollister, and Jake.

He loved everyone who entered his home, but he was especially affectionate with his surrogate Mimi, Lucy Derexson, and his Uncle Tanner and Aunt Kelsi.

Amos didn’t have a favorite toy. He was a “foodie” and enjoyed being around people. His favorite activity was relaxing on the couch, and “talking” to everyone who walked by.

His least favorite thing was detaching himself from the couch to eat, drink, or use the bathroom. In fact, the only time he’d move with a sense of urgency was to return to the couch. This of course meant his favorite place to sleep was, you guessed it, the couch.

Our favorite memories include having conversations with him from across the room, watching anytime he'd cuddle with Charlie (which Charlie only tolerated), and witnessing him power walk throughout the house so he could return to his beloved couch. We will cherish his sweet natured and goofy personality, his expressive bright green eyes, and his adorable tongue. Miss you always, love you forever.
