

Bo Liston

March 28, 2025

We first met our dog Bo when we were looking for a companion for our aging lab, Peyton. My oldest daughter and I drove to Ohio to meet Bo when he was just over a year old and he was being fostered. He saw us coming and immediately ran to his crate as he was painfully shy. We ended up bringing him home and he began to love and trust us (and harass poor Peyton). He was never fond of strangers and maintained his shyness around most people but we loved him all the same. When Peyton passed, Bo eventually got a new dog sister, Zoey, and a dog brother, Seger.

Bo spent 13 years with us. He did a little dance for treats earning him the nickname "Hoppy" from my husband and would make an excited chirping noise to welcome me home when he saw my car pull into the driveway. He had the sweetest baby face and beautiful brown eyes that could talk.

Bo began having some health issues a couple of months ago and we made the agonizing decision to let him go on March 28. I still expect to see him laying in his chair and greet me at the door but I know that will take some time. I miss him every day. I'm grateful we had many years although it went all too quickly. We love you forever Bo Bo.
