

Carlos Cunningham

This week we said goodbye to Carlos, my best friend for ten years. He was too young, only 11. His full name was Sir Juan Carlos Dongato Rafael Sancho DeCat, III, Jr. Esquire. It was a big name for a very big personality. We just called him Carl.

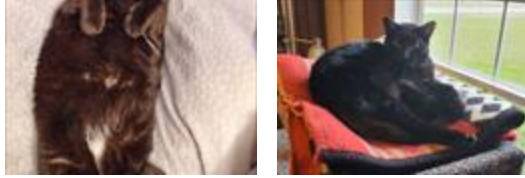

Carl was a gorgeous cat with a very thick, shiny coat. He weighed in at 15 pounds, so wasn't easily intimidated. Most importantly, he was very well behaved and affectionate.

He was dad's cat. He would wait for me to get home, and then I had to carry him through the house upside down like a baby, him purring the entire time. He was simply a sweet, loving, lovable member of the family and he is sorely missed.
