You came into my life one day, so beautiful, smart and always so happy. My dear and sweet companion, I loved you from the start. I always said you saved my life, which was fuller because you were here. I only hoped to give you the love and life you needed and deserved. No shopping trip was complete without something for you. You loved anything that talked, your cookies were always near by. You were always the happiest soul anyone could meet. You made many friends from neighbors to truckers to complete strangers. You will live in my heart as I did in yours. Companions such as you are so rare and unique. Goodbye my friend. I am beyond heartbroken, you will be dearly missed.
