

Juno Caylor

October 27, 2023

Juno came into our lives through “the cat distribution system” on August 12, 2012. She followed her soon to be pet parent, Ginger home from a walk. She remained in her home until her untimely passing on October 27, 2023. Juno was a wildcard at first, a bit feral from being a young cat on her own. Once she realized she was safe and loved, she melted into the sweetest cat. The name Juno was bestowed upon her as she was thought to be carrying babies when she joined us, barely an adult cat herself. The time came and went and no kittens ever arrived, she just had a larger abdomen but was healthy and happy. Juno joined her cat siblings, Squishy and Boo. She had to be taught to play but once she learned she was unstoppable. She often chased down toy mice (and the occasional real one) and poof balls, holding them in her mouth and meowing loudly to alert us to her “prey.” Juno enjoyed racing through the house with her cat sister, Boo, often just orange blurs appearing and disappearing. She was afraid of thunderstorms and often hid herself away for protection, no doubt something she had to do when she was on her own on the outside. She eventually was given a little, cushioned area between the sofa and chair, closed in, cozy and safe from the loud thunder. Our favorite nickname for her was “Juno, your caseworker.” We will always miss your loving nature, you running to us when your name was called and having you sleep on my tummy or by my side, purring loud for all to hear. Most of all, I’ll miss kissing your sweet but grumpy little face. I hope you and Squishy are enjoying endless catnip and treats. Love you forever, sweet girl.
