

Justice Baker

October 23, 2020

Justice Baker was born in June 2009 and went to live with her forever family on August 2, 2009. She fell into eternal sleep on October 23, 2020. Justice was also known to her family and pet parents, Ryan Baker and Kim Beyer as Baby J, Sis, Sisser J, and Tinky J. She leaves them to cherish many great memories, along with her fur brother and first forever friend, Louie, and younger fur brother, Pawlie, her Nan and Pop, her Grampa Mike and Gramma Tammy and a host of aunts, uncles and family friends who loved and helped care for her.

Justice was sweet and loved people, loved having company come see her, head and ear rubs, clothes (preferably pink), doing pretend makeup sessions with her mom, cuddles with her dad and buttering him up for attention, treats, snacks, and the occasional pet accessory item. She loved her couch and never ever met one that she did not like. She very effortlessly became the first animal in history to ever be permitted to lay on her Nan's couch.

She often spent time watching the world perched on the back of her couch as she watched through the remaining mangled window shade that never got replaced after her repeated efforts to get the neighborhood cat that taunted her. Justice never found favor with that cat or any other, but loved her people without fail.

Throughout her life, Justice was often told “The Story of the Sis” and would be happy to know that her story lived on:

Once upon a time, there was a pit-bull mom and a pit-bull dad. They had lots of pit-bull babies. A not very good man paid to have Justice and the other babies to use them for not good things. But, God looked down and saw this and said “I am not happy with these bad things and I will not let that bad man get those babies!” All of a sudden a very interesting thing happened; that bad man went to jail and just like that he could not get those cute babies. God smiled and said “Now that is done I must find very special moms and dads for those babies.”

One day, a Dad came home and said to a Mom, “Hey mom, I know where we can get a pit-bull baby”. A mom said, “But we don’t need no pit-bull babies, Dad. We have a Louie dog.” A Dad said, “But Louie is your dog and he’s a little lost in life and needs a friend.” Even though a Mom said no, God said “Well I have different plans.” So he thought for just a second and said “Let me get this man who sings and plays guitar to help her change her mind.”

On August 2, 2009 (the day after the Dave Matthews concert at Deer Creek), a mom and a dad went to see the pit-bull babies. A dad picked up Justice and right away he fell in love with her and he said, “Mom, this is our girl!” A mom had picked up one of Justice’s sisters and said, “But I think I kinda like this girl right here.” A mom and a dad switched babies and a mom took Justice and held her. While she was holding her, that baby got poops on her mom’s shirt and a mom said, “Well I guess this IS our girl.”

A mom and a dad took Justice and drove her all the way to her forever home. And do you know what she had waiting for her when she got there? She had her very own Budder Lou! And four years later Justice got her very own Pawlie Monster that she eventually learned to love (even though she and her mom wanted to take him back after two days because he was so crazy). And that is the story of the Sis and how she went to her forever home. The End. Always followed by a 'high five' from Justice.

Justice was able to pass from this world at her home with her dad, mom and fur brothers staying by her side. Her wish is for more people to find pit-bull babies and give them special and loving homes.

Justice was so very loved. She remains to her dad always as his sunshine and to her mom, always and forever the BEST one.

“Justice.... my Princess.... My Sunshine... Where do I begin? ... I knew right away when I saw you in that nasty garage, covered in poop, you were going to be our perfect princess, and you are just that. The love you gave us is immeasurable. The way you looked us in the eyes, how you let me hold you, and rock you like a baby, the way you loved, and listened to your mom when she needed to talk, we will miss those moments every single day.

Your mom wrote your obituary, and she told your story the best shes ever told it. She's very good with her words. You were so lucky to have her as your mom, and I know she loves you and misses you as much as I do!

Please watch over Lou and Pawl and keep them out of trouble! Lou is really going to miss you! He may be a jerk, but he loves you too! I saw him today, and it was obvious he is a little lost.

Justice I regret the the time we missed out on, there was no way that I could make up for it in a few short weeks. I wasn't ready for you to go...my heart is shattered... I miss you so much... I had so much more time to make up to you! I WILL see you again, I owe you more rocking time, head rubs, and a lot of specials.

Losing you has been one of the hardest moments of my life. Seeing your body fail you, knowing your time was short was so heartbreaking to watch. Looking you in the eyes as you fell asleep, and left this world is something I will never forget. I pray that you found comfort looking at your dad at that moment.

Justice you ARE the best one just like your mom says, but not just the best of yous three, the best of them ALL!

“You will rest your head,
your strength once saving...
And when you wake you will fly away,
holding tight to the legs

*of all your angels.
Goodbye my love,
into your blue, blue eyes,
In your blue, blue world,
you and me forever....”*

“ There is forever a place in my heart that belongs to you. I have so many great and sometimes laughable memories of your life with us. You were so smart, funny, and the sweetest girlie. From your sis-a-dini escapes from the yard or crate when you were little and chasing after you in the neighbors yard in my robe after you army crawled under the fence repeatedly-300 dollars worth of makeshift fence fixes to keep you in our yard, your endless attempts to seek attention by sitting on the corner of the rug and throwing your head back until someone noticed you by saying 'poooooor sisser', snuggles in bed when life got crazy, telling you that you were perfect including your perfectly awful breath, you and Lou chewing a massive size hole in the shelf in the spare room all in a matter of 10 unsupervised minutes, your hundred dollar vet visit on a 'school' night for a feigned injury that miraculously cured itself after we skipped class to rush you to the vet, how you and me stuck together in our at first dislike for Peep when he showed up even after you made it clear on the meet and greet that you did not care for him, your ability to, and your ability to sit and look at me intently when I needed to just talk. When God made a Justice he threw down the mold and said "I'll never make another one as good as this girl right here".

There are so many more wonderful memories and I am grateful to have been the one who got to be your mom. You gave us eleven great years and I will always and forever miss you.
