A six year old Yorkipoo, he charged into my life on October 22, 2013 when I adopted him from a family with small children. When I met him, I knew his energy would match mine and I instantly fell in love. Louie loved his squeaky toys and chasing his mini tennis balls. He enjoyed running the fence line barking at the neighbor dogs. He would greet me with face nuzzles whether I had been gone for five minutes or five hours. He had to sleep with his butt against me but threw a fit if I dare disturbed him. We spent a lot of time on the road and he always had his spot buckled in the front seat next to me. Lou had the brightest smile, boldest bark, and biggest personality. He was a sweet boy and at times a grumpy old man. To say he was my best friend is an understatement. Louie will leave a huge hole in my heart but so many memories to cherish.
