

Phoenix Staton

July 23, 2009 - June 21, 2024

Phoenix Staton was born on July 23, 2009, and passed on June 21, 2024. She is survived by her family: Rob, Stephanie, Roman and Clementine S.

Phoenix was known for being the friendliest, prettiest, sweetest, fluffiest dog who never met a stranger. She loved everyone, and I mean everyone. Other dogs, cats, people of any age, even the ducks in our backyard. She was the kindest soul. If another dog barked or growled at her, she never responded with hostility. She liked soft, comfortable spots. She preferred the couch or our bed, but once she could no longer jump up anymore, she always needed a blanket on the floor to lay on.

She loved going to new places and smelling new things. She had the best nose. She was always up for a walk. "Walk" was most certainly her favorite word. She loved people and attention. If you stopped petting her too soon, she'd put her paw on you to let you know she wanted more. She loved belly rubs most of all. She was a big begger who adored food, especially treats. She knew how to sit, shake both paws, lay down and roll over. But she would only do it for food. She was known for trying to "bury" her food in the carpet with her nose, which was always funny to watch. She was a snow dog who preferred cold weather. She loved eating snow and running through leaf piles. She really enjoyed just sniffing the fresh air outside as the wind blew and eating grass.

Her dislikes included the vacuum, the toaster, heatwaves, baths, hard floors, being groomed, long car rides, fireworks, thunderstorms and being alone. She loved us, her family, with the entirety of her heart. Nothing made her happier than just being in the room with us, listening to us talk.

She was incredibly smart even as a little puppy. She was a mischievous and feisty girl, often getting into trouble with her brother Orion. They were so close, being siblings from the same litter, and I know these past 2 years without him have been hard for her.

So go to that Rainbow Bridge sweet girl, and find Orion. He's been waiting for you to join him. Run together til we meet again. We will miss you every day until then.
