

Sammy White

November 30, 2021

Sammy White (aka SamsSams, Cow Cat, Parrot Cat) passed away at approximately 1:00pm on Tuesday, November 30. He passed at home during a sunny afternoon in one of his favorite living room spots. He was preceded in death by his older brother Petey. Sammy and Petey are now happily reunited and enjoying their time at the rainbow bridge.

Sammy was adopted as a tiny kitten by his cat-dad John and spent his entire life as an awesome little companion. His older brother Petey took to him instantly when they were introduced, showing him the important ways of cat. He accompanied John and Petey through a string of apartments, their first house and then his final household with ample room, cat towers and hiding spots.

Sammy was an expert lap cat during video gaming sessions, movie time, and reading. And occasionally he would perform his "popple" during sleep, where he would literally fold in on himself and shrink to a little white ball of fur. He was definitely a cat with an agenda all his own. Generally something had to be his idea or it wasn't going to happen. That just made such times when he actually wanted some pets and attention even better. Many people commented that he had some of the softest fur ever, (and he did) so he was fun to pet. Unfortunately, all of this has come to an end, as all things must.

But Sams, you will not be forgotten and thank you for being such a sweet, awesome kitty.

RIP little bud,

John (dad)
