

Scooby Hill

April 10, 2026

Today we honor the life of Scooby, whose love and presence brought immeasurable joy to those lucky enough to be able to get to know him. Scooby was more than a pet—he was family, a best friend, and a cherished son.

Scooby brought comfort, happiness, and unconditional love to his family. He had the sweetest soul, the gentlest heart, and a way of making every day brighter simply by being there. Whether through his playful spirit, loyal companionship, or the comfort of resting by your side, Scooby made our lives better in countless ways.

He was amazing in all the ways that mattered most: loving without limits, trusting completely, and reminding everyone around him what pure happiness looks like.

To us Scooby was not just a dog—he was a best friend, a constant companion, and a son in every sense of the word. He is unforgettable.

Though Scooby is no longer physically by our side, the love he gave and the memories he created will remain forever. His pawprints are etched into your heart, where they can never fade.

Run free, sweet Scooby. You were deeply loved, and you always will be.
