

Zelda Ramirez

March 17, 2025

Zelda was the light of every room she was in. She had so much life and love to give. She had one true love besides her family and that was her ball. Ball is life according to Zelda. She would wake us up every morning and do her little snoopy howls by throwing her whole body into it. Everyone who met her loved her as she was a sweetheart that you could see everything she was thinking with the emotion in her eyes. She got me through the toughest times in my life Death, Divorce, vet tech school, moving states several times and more. My heart is fractured with the love I feel for her and the sorrow of missing her is overwhelming. There is a quote by Anatole France that helps me in these times: "Until one has loved an animal, a part of one's soul remains unawakened." Zelda you were my soul dog and I want to thank you for giving me the gift of loving you even though it was not long enough. I'll see you again at the rainbow bridge baby girl.
